IS ALEXANDRIA IN THE DISTRICT? [From the Washington Star.]

Among the most interesting cases to come before the United States Supreme Court at this session, is that of Phillip vs. Payne, which involves the legality of the retrocession of Alexandria city and county from this district to the state of Virgisia. The matter having attracted considerable attention, the following facts may prove interesting: Alexandria was founded in 1749, and was incorporated in 1779. The cession of the town and county of Alexandria to the United States was made by an act of the general assembly of Virginia of December 3, 1789. Congress accepted the cession in 1790, and jurisdiction was extended over the town and county of Alexaudria on the 27th of February, 1801. From 1835 there was a growing desire on the part of the people of the town of Alexandria to return to Virginia, but this desire was in no wise shared by the people of the country, who continued to the last almost unanimous against retrocession. In 1838, after the repeal by Congress of the local bank charter, the agitation upon the subject became more active and persevering. Foremost among the young men who promoted the movement was Henry Winter Davis, then a resident of Alexandria. In February, 1846, the general assembly of Virginia passed an act providing for the acceptance of the retrocession of Alexandria town and county upon the passage of an act of Congress for that purpose and its acceptance by the voters of Alexandria. On the 8th of May, in the same year the House of Representatives of the United States authorized the retrocession by a vote of 95 to 100. Among those who voted in the negative were John Quincy Adams, Jefferson Davis and Abraham Lincoln. It was adopted in the Senate by a vote of 32 to 14. Messrs. Calhoun, Reverdy Johnson, Benton, Cameron, Clayton, Corwin, Crittenden and other distinguished men, voting in its favor; Messrs. Breese, Dickinson, Dix and Mangum voting in the negative. Mr. Webster did not vote.

This act, after setting forth that "no more territory under the exclusive legislation given to Congress over the District, which is the seat of the general government, than may be necessary and proper for the purpose of such a seat," and that "experience hath shown that the portion of the District of Columbia ceded to the United States by the State of Virginia has not been, nor is likely to be necessary for that purpose," proceeded to cede the county and town of Alexandria, with the consent of a majority of the people thereof, "to the State of Virginia, in full and absolute right and jurisdiction, as well of soil as of persons resding or to reside therein." The voters of Alexandria early in September concurred in the retrocession by a vote of 763 to 222, the polls being kept open three days, and before the close of the year the jurisdiction of Virginia was formally extended over the retroceded territory.

Nor has the subject failed beretofore to be called to the attention of eminent judicial tri-JAMES F. MUIR & BRO. bunals. At the time of the retrocession there was pending in the Supreme Court of the United States on appeal from the Circuit Court of the District of Celumbia for Alexandria several cases, notably that of Bank of Potomac vs. Mc-Laughlin. Congress authorized the Supreme Court to decide all such cases as before, and to certify the decision to the Circuit Superior Court of Virginia for Alexandria, and the leg-JAMES H. DEVAUGHN, islature of Virginia authorized the latter court to accept such decision as binding. The Supreme Court decided the cases and certified them accordingly, and in the case above cited on appeal the Court of Appeals of Virginia on the 11th of May, 1850, decided this proceeding ALEXANDRIA, VA.

constitutional and valid. At one time Mr. Lincoln recommended the recession of Alexandria to the District by the joint action of the United States and Virginia. During the war it was proposed that the general government should take and keep jurisdiction under "the war power." and just after the war the subject was agitated in the Senate of the United States, but was soon dropped.

WHY FARMERS KEEP POOR. - A correspondent says; After long observation 1 have come to the conclusion that a great majority of the farmers who are poor might have made money. If you inquire into their business habits, you will find that they always sold the best and kept the poorest. For instance, if they have too many sheep on hand, they pick out the best to be sold. If you ask them why they do so they will say-

"Because they bring twice as much as the others, and I am hard up just now, for money. I know that it is not a good plan, and I do not intend to follow it always.

I think the habit of selling the best a very poor plan for any man, I don't care what his circumstances may be. I have a man in may mind now, who always sells his poorest sheep i r more than twice as much as the average farmer gets for his best. I have seen farmers in the fall pick out their best pigs to fatten, because they would make a few more pounds of pork more than would have been made had they taken ten of the poorer. By making this one hundred pounds of pork extra they think that much is gained. They are very much mistaken. By reversing their rule they might make ten times that amount.

A VETERAN EDITOR,-We had the pleasure this week of a visit from the Nestor of the Virginia Press, John S. Gallaher, esq., of Washington city. Mr. Gallaher, though in the "sere and yellow leaf." is still very good company, and his long connection with the press of the country has furnished him with a fund of reminiscences of the celebrated characters of the past half century to which it is very entertaining to listen. In many of the scenes he himself bas been a prominent actor. Mr. Gallaher was the founder of the Virginia Free Press at Harper's Ferry, since removed to Charlestown. This journal was established in 1820. He was connected with the Richmonh Whig from Jat. 1,1837 to Jan. 1, 1840, with

J. H. Pleasants and Alexander Mosely. The Whig was founded by Mr. Pleasants in 1824. Mr. Gallaher is consequently the oldest Virginia journalist. Until within a very short time he has used his pen vigorously, and even yet frequently wields it when the excitement of public affairs awakens the desire of mixing in the disturbed elements that seems to stir every man who has ever had anything to do with journalism.—Exchange.

DROTECT YOUR BUILDINGS! Which may be done with one-fourth the usual expense by using
GLINES' PATENT SLATE ROOFING

PAINT. AGRNTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN.

A roof may be covered with a cheap shingle, and by application of this state be made to last from 20 to 25 years. Old roofs can be patched and coated, looking much better, and lasting longer than new shingles without the slate, for

ONE-THIRD THE COST OF RE-SHING-LING.

The expense of slating new shingles is only about the cost of simply laying them. The Paint is FIRE PROOF against sparks or flying embers, as appears from the fact that Insurance Componies make nearly the SAME TARIFF AS FOR SLATED ROOFS. For tin and iron it has no equal, as it expands by heat, contracts by cold, and never cracks nor scales. F. r fences it is particularly adapted, as it will not correde in the most exposed places. Roofs covered with Tar Sheathing Felt can be made water-tight at a small expense. The Slate Paint is EXTREMELY CHEAP!

Two gallons will cover a hundred square feet of shingle roof, or over four hundred of tin or iron. Price ready for use is 80 cents per gallon. NO TAR IS USED IN THIS COMPOSITION. On decayed shingles it fills up the holes and pores, hardens them and gives a new substantial roof that will last for years. Curled or warped shingles it brings to their place and keeps them there. It fills up all holes in Tin or Felt roofs, and stops the leaks, one coat being equal to five of ordinary paint. The color of the Slate when first applied is dark purple, changing in about a month to a light uniform slate color, and it is, TO ALL INTENTS AND PURPOSES,

SLATE. The Paint has a very heavy body, but it is easily put on, and although a slow dryer, rain will not affect it in the least one hour after applying. Orders respect'ully solicited. All our Paints are mixed ready for use.
